

About the Company

Created in 1999, Ambrion is an executive search, consulting, and staff augmentation firm that provides experienced professionals for financial and accounting positions. Since its inception in 1999, Ambrion has developed a powerful network. Top companies trust us as a resource that delivers candidates who are prepared for success from the start. In 2001, Ambrion founder Brian Carlson recruited Jeff Moench from a national competitor to start Ambrion's staff augmentation division.

Building upon their expertise in executive search and staff augmentation, Ambrion has since added a consulting division to complete their service offerings. Ambrion is at the forefront of recruiting hard-to-find professionals for accounting and finance positions and making lasting matches into corporate cultures.

Ambrion was founded with a vision to be the best at placing talented people at companies who need them. Ambrion's leadership found that the most efficient and exciting way to do this is by honoring their relationships and making a lasting contribution to everyone they work with.
